

Kennally Creek Trail - Payette National Forest

Description: To reach the trailhead at Kennally Creek, campground, turn east off Highway 55 onto the graveled and dirt Paddy Flat Road. Drive seventeen miles to the campground. The beginning of this trail borders Kennally Creek as it froths over water beaten boulders. In slightly less than a mile, the trail crosses the North Fork of Kennally Creek on a wooden bridge. At 2.5 miles, the trail crosses a creek. This is the Kennally Lakes or Cougar Lakes Trail and is a fifteen-to-eighteen-mile steep hike. This is a popular horse trail as is the Needles trail and Black Mare summit trails that also takes off from the main Kennally Creek trail. There is a horse-unloading ramp just outside the campground.

Driving directions from Donnelly, ID to Paddy Flat Rd 16.7 mi – about 58 mins Via National Forest Rd 388/389/Paddy Flat Rd –

Look for the road sign where NF 388 "Y" and take the fork at say's to Kennally Camp Grounds. There are a number of roads off NF388/389 so stay on the best looking option. GPS 44.78204, -115.87585

Kennally Creek Campground: There is an established camp ground there, but of course horses cannot be there. There is a horse area just before the camp ground and the creek is just across the road. The main trail stays in the valley of Kennally creek, very flat. There are two other trails that take off to the East and South.

There is good trailer parking and a vault toilet. There are excellent places to set up high lines for your stock

The horse camping area has a fire pit and table.

There is good access to water for your stock near the horse camping area at the creek.
